NO NEWS.

There has been of late a loud complaint against the newspapers, that their pages have become cold, dead and uninteresting. To the shame and scandal of the Editors it must be confessed that Bonaparte has not broke loose from his cage at St. Helena. Europe is now enjoying a state of intolerable peace, and we have no rapos, robberies, murders or condagations on a large scale, to gratify a craving curiosity. What is to be done in this deplorable dilemma? How much it is to be lamented that Alexander will not set free to Petersburg, or that Ferdinand would not voluntarily renounce a throne for a dungeon, for the benefit of those who have such insatiable appetite for novelty. But the season is not surely entirely destitute of interest. We have in all conscience enough house-breaking, robbery and counterfeiting at home, to rouse the ennui of the reader. But it seems that these examples are not purely to the American taste: they come too near our own hearths and fire-side; we cannot sit and peruse them with such quiet satisfaction, as we can do, when the Atlantic intervenes. We begin to talk then, about giving more energy to the laws, and lending our assistance to the officers of justice for the apprehension of such notorious offenders. Many who feel sore under the infliction of such evils, would be nothing to lament if a whole continent was arrayed in arms and murder, robbery and conflagration were perpetrated on a grand and magnificent scale. If we bring such examples nearer home, we shall see with what injustice we complain against the barren character of our newspapers. To say that we have no intelligence to communicate in every arrival from Europe is the best of all intelligence. It proves that the nations of Europe are busily employed in cultivating the arts of peace—that the laws are regaining their proper tone and energy—that the people are happy and contented, and repairing the ravages of war. It proves that Europe is purified from those turbulent and rancorous spirits who cannot exist in the calm sunshine of peace. All these it is true, are unostentatious blessings, they are not promulgated to the world by the sound of a trumpet, the thunders of cannon, the trampling of steeds, the groans of dying or by the shouts of conquering heroes. But while Europe presents to us a spectacle of such imposing tranquility, let us not be always so perfectly sure that when we wish for a change of scene, a merciful protecting Atlantic will pour his billows between us and the theatre of such awful contentions as he has hitherto done.

We may be gratified with more than our wishes. The time may come when some long European when he sits beside the smoke of his paternal chimney, may wait with anxiety for the journal whose pages will be polluted by American blood. A dark cloud already begins to loom on this western firmament. While privateers are fitted out of our own ports, supplied with all the munitions of war, which by changing their flags in the face of a solemn existing treaty, plunder the commerce of the subjects of his Catholic Majesty—while these vessels extend their ravages, and capture vessels sailing under the flags of other independent powers, with whom the United States are likewise bound by the faith of existing treaties to preserve amicable relations, it requires no spirit of prophecy to foresee the issue of such flagrant enormities. It will be found that a change of the flag, will be but a poor apology for such downright flagrant robbery, and violation of treaties. It may indeed be said in extenuation, that these privateers do not commit a greater outrage on other nations, than they do upon their own countrymen; that since their own countrymen do not complain of such depredations, other nations have no right to remonstrate. We shall endeavor shortly to call the attention of congress to this plea of justification for robbery.

But to return to the question, it surely does not become us as men or as christians, constantly to be deploring the absence of those calamities which in ordinary parlance make the pages of a public paper interesting. Our curiosity is indeed satisfied at too dear a rate, if nothing but legalized murder, conflagration and robbery will answer. We have reason to be grateful to a beneficent God that he has spoken peace to the whirlwinds and stayed the sword of his exterminating Angel. The husband and the wife, the father and the son, may now embrace in the hope that they may be allowed to die in the family mansion, and to be buried in the sepulchre of their ancestors. This is a privilege which Divine Providence has for a long season thought fit to deny to a great portion of our fellow men—they have been sung to the sleep of death by the notes of the raven, the snow has been their winding sheet, and the howl of the northern blast has been their funeral dirge. Surely novelties of this kind are purchased at a rate infinitely too dear.

From late London Papers.

Liverpool, Oct. 4.

A PRACTICAL CHRISTIAN.
The funeral of Mr. Richard Reynolds, whose death was noticed in our publication of the 20th ult. was attended by some thousands of people, and all, especially those among them who had so often been fed by his bounty, were in the deepest sorrow.

When the coffin was placed over the grave, and the numerous relatives and friends of the deceased were collected around, a profound silence of about a quarter of an hour ensued: after which several ministers of the society addressed the vast assemblage present in a most impressive manner, bearing testimony as well to the truly Christian life and character of the deceased, as to the power of religion by which his life has been governed. These several addresses were succeeded by a prayer, which, with the interment of the body, finished the solemn religious duty.

He was a member of the society of Quakers. By marriage he got connected as a partner in the large Iron works of Colebrook Dale. As the profits of these extensive works increased, so did his benevolence. To attempt anything like accuracy in stating the amount of his benefactions would be vain; none but himself knew how much he distributed. "We have witnessed," says the Editor of the Bristol Mirror, "more than once 500 guineas to one charity—100 to another; here and there the same repeated under the modest name of 'A Friend,' and various other undistinguished signatures—indeed in one year, (the year of scarcity) we are assured that he bestowed 20,000l. in charity: we do not doubt it, for there appeared neither limit nor bound to his benevolence, as he had correspondents in various parts of the united kingdom, who sought for cases of distress in their respective neighborhoods, and recommended them to his assistance. Not content with bestowing such abundant gifts annually, he purchased two estates in Monmouthshire, which he settled on trustees, for the benefit of certain charities in this city; and we have heard that he bestowed in acts of benevolence, in his time, upwards of 200,000l. The active benevolence of his pursuits seems to have given that ruddy, healthy, and cheerful appearance to his countenance, which indicated peace within. He lived to a late period of life, enjoyed great good health, loved, honored and venerated by all around him; and sunk at last, as his friends could wish, with scarce a pang or struggle—relying, in his parting moments, upon the cheering promises of redeeming love."

Mr. Reynolds was the father of Mrs. Rathbone, relict of the late William Rathbone, Esq. Liverpool.

LONDON, October 21.
BONAPARTE.

Extract of a letter from St. Helena, dated the 30th August.

"Bonaparte is sometimes very sulky, and seldom pleased.—The furniture arrived from England gave him great satisfaction, but that will soon wear off—latterly an ice machine has occupied much of his time. He will soon cease to be interesting, except to the casual visitors, who make all possible exertions to get a sight of him; and he as cautiously endeavors to find out all he can, but the rigid orders on people visiting him prevent him hearing much. The persons about him are the greatest annoyance; if alone he would be much better, and eventually forget his former greatness in part, and associate more with those who are sent to watch over him. Sir Hudson Lowe and he are on very bad terms, and the foreign commissioners have not yet seen him; he has no objection to receive them as individuals, but otherwise he refuses."

A SECOND TELEMACHUS.

It is said that the son of Mungo Park, the traveller, who resides in the neighborhood of Edinburgh, a fine youth of about 14 years of age, is preparing to go abroad in search of his father, whom he still believes to be alive.

The best way to parry a jest is often to join in the laugh. The following paragraph from the Washingtonian, a Federal paper printed in Bradford county affords a specimen of this sort of defence. It seems that two of Mr. Madison's and Mr. Snyder's office holders who have the management of a prothonotary's office, a newspaper office, a post office, &c. &c. for want of something of more importance to fix their censure upon, had found fault with the person and face of the editor of the Washingtonian, who, in the following manner repels, or rather admits, the charge of having an ugly face.

From the Washingtonian.

To the Ladies.

In last week's Bradford Gazette, Messrs. Wells and Ridgway, with their accustomed suavity, wit and pleasantry, indulge in much biting satire on the Washingtonian editor's frightful ill favoured, hideous, ugly, stealing face. Alas! 'kind gentlemen' that is joking upon facts indeed.

I am very sensible of my misfortune in this particular. In my younger days when I saw gallants, formed in Nature's happiest mould, like such Adonises as Ridgway and Wells, every where preferred by the ladies, I have many a time lamented my hard lot, and cursed the malicious trick of Nature for giving me so ugly and frightful a face, and which I have since often thought (to myself however) must have been intended for a boon, and that in the hurry of business it was unfortunately given to lead me to furnish a sting or point for the dry and the laughable satire of the more graceful and happily featured Ridgway and Wells. As I grew old and sober philosophy reconciled me to my hard lot, convinced of the truth of my maxim that fretting would not make me a bit prettier, or in the least mend my hideous, sheepstealing visage.

However I may yet sometimes regret at my unhappy lot, I really do not envy either Wells or Ridgway their comely, graceful persons, and in being what the ladies consider such exquisite and delicate handsome gentlemen, I can possibly console myself with the reflection that my sheepstealing face will happily shield me against two serious miseries, to wit—becoming the subject of either reproach to one woman, and of being run away from another.

But enough of this, Gentlemen. You know a serious matter to joke about! Be satisfied, Gentlemen, that I own your superior comeliness and beauty, and in your mercy do spare little Peter's ugly face. If you are as charitable as you are comely, do spare poor Peter's want of so beautiful a mazzard as the Charles F. Wells and Burr Ridgway. In 'pity, kind gentlemen,' spare me.

Skeleton of a Fossil Shark.

New York, Nov. 22.—The teeth of this fish lately dug out of the ground near Mu physville, on the Meherrin river, in North Carolina, are triangular, with a base of four inches and a half, and a length of sixteen inches ending in a point. They are, perhaps, larger than any that are known, weighing sixteen ounces each. Dr. Mitchell, on laying them before the class of Natural History, in the University, a few days ago, presented, also, a joint of the backbone of the same animal, in a petrified state, weighing twelve pounds and a half. He accompanied the specimens with the information derived from the intelligent Mr. Neville, that this disinterested skeleton was found at the distance of fifty miles from the ocean; and, as examined by himself and Dr. Foster, near forty feet in length. The mind of the contemplative and pious is filled with admiration on the occasion of such wonderful things.

ALEXANDRIA.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30.

Col. Trour has been elected by the Legislature of Georgia to fill the vacancy in the present Congress, occasioned by the resignation of Dr. Bibb.

We understand that John Howard, March, of New Hampshire, is appointed by the President, Consul for the Island of Madeira.

A letter was yesterday received from Boston, stating, that on the 7th of July, the Bay of Honduras was closed to American commerce.

Two recent attempts have been made to fire the town of Portsmouth, (N. H.) one of which was, by kindling a fire under the new Custom House. A has acknowledged that he made the attempt, and has been examined, and committed for trial.

Captain Geraghty, of the British frigate, on his passage from Trinidad, to Baltimore, observed in the Bay of Honduras, a small star, in the north quarter, about E. S. E. being visible one hour. Star had a very long tail, which gradually became invisible until the Star was fully obscured. This must have been served between the 7th and 16th of July, about which time a considerable gale, varied that latitude and longitude.

We have been obligingly favored by Capt. Dukehart, with a Haytian Gazette, dated the 27th of last month. This sheet has a flourishing arm shield at its head, representing an ideal crown, supported by two crouching lions, with the motto "God, my cause, my sword."

Nearly the whole of this Royal Gazette, is taken up with a piece, entitled "The apparition of the White Flag on the coast of Hayti?"—Shewing, the King of France, had lately sent out vessels of war, the commanders of which were instructed to make proposals to the people of St. Domingo to return to the government of France.—The commanders, however, probably knowing the fierce and despotic temper of his Majesty, did not venture to enter the port of Cape Henry, but stood off for several days, until they met a frigate from N. York, which they boarded, prevailed on the Captain and Surgeon to carry in two letters to the Cape, less explaining the nature of the proposals of the French Government. The Duke of Marlborough having come to the fort to receive the letters, the King's Royal Gazette) express the astonishment and indignation of his Grace, when he perceived a solemn subscription of these letters, which, instead of being most respectfully addressed to "his Majesty, the King of Hayti," were only directed to "the General Christophe, at Francois." This horrid indignity his Grace's majesty was resented, and in returning the letters to the Americans, who, we may justly had been forced into this petulant and who made all the speed they could from the indignation of the black tide, happy in being able to bring themselves off with their lives.

This is a brief but fair abstract of a long story, told in the true style of tian hyperbole, and from which it appears, that the black king of Hayti, jealous of his Royal titles, as a legitimate in any part of the world.

From all we have been able to learn, there is a wide difference of character between the King of Hayti and the King of France. The first is represented as despotic and cruel as the latter, the other, as governing with some respect to law, lenity and justice. Be this as it may, a great part of the story is levelled at the Duke of Petion, who is accused, in acrimonious terms, as being leagued with the French government, in order to bring the whole of St. Domingo under the subjection of Louis the 18th.

We are not enabled to pronounce the truth of these accusations, but it is clear to us, that these rival chiefs long to be at peace, that they must blow, each of them aiming at the ruin of the other. Which of them will obtain the mastery, and when their personal wars and contentions King of France may contrive to the dominion of this once great and flourishing colony, more valuable than other West India islands besides the matter of very uncertain conjecture.

ALEXANDRIA.
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30.

Col. Troup has been elected by the Legislature of Georgia to fill the vacancy in the present Congress, occasioned by the resignation of Dr. Bibb.

We understand that John Howard March, of New Hampshire, is appointed by the President, Consul for the Island of Madeira.

A letter was yesterday received via Boston, stating that on the 7th of October, the Bay of Honduras was opened to American commerce.

Two recent attempts have been made to fire the town of Portsmouth, (N. H.) one of which was, by kindling a flame under the new Custom House. A lad has acknowledged that he made the attempt, and has been examined, and committed for trial.

Captain Geraghty, of the British ship, Helen, on his passage from Trinidad and Montserrat, to Baltimore, observed in lat. 26, 24; N. and long. 74, 15, W. a curious Star in the north quarter, shooting E. S. E. being visible one hour. The Star had a very long tail, which gradually became invisible until the Star was totally obscured. This must have been observed between the 7th and 16th Nov. about which time a considerable gale prevailed that latitude and longitude.

We have been obligingly favored by Capt. Dukehart, with a Haytian Royal Gazette, dated the 27th of last Oct. This sheet has a flourishing armorial shield at its head, representing an imperial crown, supported by two crowned lions, with the motto "God, my cause and my sword."

York, which they boarded, and prevailed on the Captain and Supercargo to carry in two letters to the Cape, doubtless explaining the nature of the proposals of the French Government.—The Duke of Maradele having come down to the fort to receive the letters, "nothing (says the Royal Gazette) can express the astonishment and indignation of his Grace, when he perceived the insolent superscription of these papers, which, instead of being most respectfully addressed to his Majesty, the King of Hayti," were only directed to "Monsieur le General Christophe, at Cape Francois." This horrid indignity to his sable majesty was resented by his Grace in returning the letters unopened to the Americans, who, we may imagine, had been forced into this perilous mission, and who made all the speed they could from the indignation of the black multitude, happy in being able to bring themselves off with their lives.

This is a brief but fair abstract of a long story, told in the true style of Haytian hyperbole, and from which it appears, that the black King of Hayti is as jealous of his Royal titles, as any white Legitimate in any part of the world.

From all we have been able to learn, there is a wide difference of character between the King of Hayti and the President Petion.—The first is represented to be as despotic and cruel as the Day of Algiers; the other, as governing his people with some respect to law, lenity and justice. Be this as it may, a great part of the Apparition story is levelled at the conduct of Petion, who is accused, in very acrimonious terms, as being secretly leagued with the French government, in order to bring the whole of St. Domingo under the subjection of Louis the 18th.

We are not enabled to pronounce on the truth of these accusations, but it seems clear to us, that these rival Chieftains cannot long be at peace, that they must come to blows, each of them aiming at the sole dominion of the country.—Which of them will obtain the mastery, and whether, in their personal wars and contentions, the King of France may contrive to regain the dominion of this once great and flourishing colony, more valuable than all the other West India islands besides, is yet a matter of very uncertain conjecture.—Am. merican.

NEW BOTANY BAY.
The inspectors of the state prison of New York, in an address to the legislature, through the governor of the state, lament the excess of numbers condemned to the penitentiary, which makes frequent pardons indispensable, and otherwise detracts from the utility of the institution. They then proceed thus:—"With these facts before us, it has become matter of serious consideration whether the state prison has not a tendency to demoralize rather than to reclaim criminals; for whenever punishment is so far mitigated as not to be dreaded, the law fails in the effect it proposes to produce. We are, therefore, firmly of opinion, that some different plan for the punishment of crimes, of the first magnitude, such as arson, forgery and other felonies of the deepest dye, ought to be adopted, or a state prison in every district will be required to contain the delinquents. Permit us, then, to suggest to your excellency and the honorable the legislature, the propriety of recommending, through our representatives in congress, the establishment by the general government of a COLONY on the north west coast of America, at or near the Columbia River, or at Madison Island, to which convicts of the aforementioned class shall be transported. If however the government of the United States should object to this plan, why may not this state adopt a similar one, on a smaller scale, and fix on some place on the frontiers of the state, where they may be sent and usefully employed, to keep them from committing in future, their depredations on society? Believing that the utility as well as the necessity of some distant place being fixed upon, to which certain convicts in the different states of the Union may be transported, will be generally acknowledged by congress, we feel anxious that the subject should be submitted to their consideration as early as possible.

Del. Gaz.

Interesting to Millers.
At the late session of the Circuit Court of the United States, a cause was tried and decided, involving a principle which has excited much anxiety in this and several other states.—It was a suit brought by Oliver Evans against Eaton, for an infringement of his patent right, in using the Hopper Boy.—The defence taken was that Evans was not the inventor of the Hopper Boy—that it was invented by another person—and that, at most, Evans had but improved it. The trial occupied a length of time many witnesses were examined on both sides; and the cause fully argued by counsel. The defence was sufficiently established in point of fact; and, under the charge of the Court, the jury found a verdict for the defendant.—We shall probably be able at a future day to lay a full report both of the trial and of the judge's charge before our readers. This discussion goes to destroy Mr. Evans's right to the Hopper Boy.—His other improvements on mill machinery contained in his patent, was not the subject of this suit.

Economy in Medicine.
Keep the feet from wet, and the head well defended when in bed; avoid too plentiful meals; drink moderately warm and generous, but not inflaming liquors; go not abroad without breakfast. Shun the night air as you would the plague; and let your horses be kept from lamp by warm fires. By observing these few and simple rules, better health may be expected than from the use of the most powerful medicines.

Substitute for Milk or Cream.
Where cream or milk cannot be got, it is an excellent substitute to beat up the whole of a fresh egg in a basin, and then gradually to pour boiling tea over it to prevent its curdling. It is difficult from the taste to distinguish the composition from tea and rich cream. This might be of great use at sea, as eggs may be preserved fresh in various ways.

JAMES KENNEDY & SON,

BOOKSELLERS, KING STREET,
Have just received from LEE'S PATENT MEDICINE Store, No. 46 Maiden Lane, N. York.
A FRESH SUPPLY

Of the following genuine Medicines.
For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended

Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the Southern & Middle States, particularly in N. York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston, and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons at each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe, that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives, when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy, founded on mere assertion.

It is not, indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age. They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile & prevent its morbid secretions—to restore & amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds which is so often a fatal consequence. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions or foulness in their stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles, so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and is also mild in its operation, cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS.

And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds, viz.—The Terebra, or large round worm; the Ascarides, or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Taenia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long, and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy & foetid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever, with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success, in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the vomiting and purging of children—a dreadful disorder which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number, when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases. Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Persian Lotion operates mildly, without impeding the natural insensible perspiration, which is essential to health, yet its effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and smooth, and improving the complexion.
